I understand how hard it must be, is there any way that any type of measuring device that we could easily get that could be used in the meantime? We are willing to pay for it, if there is. Today, it has been bad all day, really bad,- major headache bad, and we are stuck at home, teaching school from home. Is there was some way we could have some sort of assessment that could be used on a permanent basis, it would be so good. Something that could at least show what's happening here? Could you ask Mr. Tocci if there is any type of equipment(cell phone, etc) that could be used. Our in hand technology has come so far, it would seem that might be something.

I really hope you are working from home and not out in public, stay safe and healthy.

Dear Ms. Berwick-

I reached out to Mr. Tocci late last week as to when or whether we can institute the complaint monitoring protocol, but I haven't heard back as of right now. I reached out to his associate Brad Dunkin this morning to see if I can get a status. As you know, there is a state of emergency right now and I am doing my best under the circumstances. I have asked the facility to look into whether there are any operational issues going on right now. I understand that you are frustrated, but I am asking for your patience as I try to sort this all out. In the meantime, don't hesitate to send me updates. Can you please provide me with a timeframe when the sound was/is really bad today? Any description of the sound?

Sincerely,

Pam
