To Whom it may concern:

It is our opinion that the proposed Antrim Wind Energy project that is before the SEC will result in a significant adverse effect on the surrounding environment and on the quality of life of those of us who live in the area of the proposed project.

At a SEC hearing November 1, 2016 that we attended, Mr. Justin Richardson, whom we did not know, was so effectively advocating for the Antrim Wind Energy project that we assumed he was one of the attorneys for the project. It was very upsetting to learn he is actually an attorney for the Town of Antrim, paid, we assume, with the tax money all Antrim residents pay each year.

Since it is our understanding the people of the Town of Antrim clearly opposed the construction of a wind farm, we were shocked to hear his enthusiastic support of the project. In addition, we were offended by his insinuation that because the area to be affected by the wind turbines, which he so desires, does not reach the significance of a Mt. Washington or a Hampton Beach, it is not worth preserving.

Mr. Richardson functions much better as a representative of a well-funded special interest group than he does for all the people of Antrim.

Sincerely,

Thomas W. Boyle
