As a California resident, but frequent visitor and sometimes summer resident in the New Hampshire lake and mountain regions, I find the proposed wind project near Grafton very alarming. It seems incredible to me that your State would even consider a project of this size that would so negatively impact tourism and quality of life issues for all of New Hampshire. I certainly would change my mind about wanting to retire to NH if there were these ugly, noisy, environmentally unfriendly wind turbines littering the hills of the state. I hope the State will investigate the new research that shows that wind turbines themselves hasten climate change through the recirculation of air which naturally warms the earth surrounding.
