Subject: Eversource project

Hello Dori!

I am a resident of Durham. I'm originally from Long Island and Great Bay is one of the reasons my husband could convince me to move to New Hampshire.

I have been following the Seacoast Reliability Project since last June. I am an abutter and received information (late in the game) about the project. While of course I have been concerned about my neighborhood and property, I have become increasingly concerned about the health of the Bay as I learn more. I understand that there have been previous damage to the ecosystem of the Bay, and that the DES has taken measures to remediate and has seen improvements. I am worried that the Eversource project will put the Bay in harms way again, specifically the jet plowing. As I know you are aware, recent independent parties have tested the Bay to reveal that jet plowing could bring about serious consequences.

What action will DES take to protect the Bay before there is significant damage that cannot be mitigated?

Thank you for hearing my concerns.
