Dear Sir,

Our objections to the Northern Pass are many but, beside the blight to our landscape and irreparable damage to our property values, the process and rules, as proposed to date, are extremely biased towards the energy industry and they are unacceptable.

These are two private entities one of which is outside of our country and they talk of eminent domain and are paying huge amounts of money to wrestle property away from owners, driving wedges between families. The way it's going, there seems to be nothing can be done to stop these bullies. I'm told there are people putting together funds from Mass. Conn., and RI to help finance this deal.

How can citizens like us have a chance against an organization like that? If our state has to be an extension cord for lower New England then let them bury the whole line. God knows they have the money.

Sincerely,
