Because of this activity “Baker is pushing the Massachusetts Legislature to pass a law that would initiate a new long-term contract bidding process, one that could bring considerably more hydropower into Massachusetts from Canada.”

I urge the SEC to not only consider the single line NPT is currently trying to get by you, but to consider what “significantly more” really means. You aren’t approving one wire, you are essentially giving away New Hampshire to host MANY wires. And if you support their request for Public Utility status, then with the power of eminent domain they will continue to widen the ROW for many years to come to host those many wires.

How can this NOT have a negative effect?

Also if NPT wins the RFP bid, then the Eversource CUSTOMERS will be funding the line. If we will be paying for it, then what does it matter to Eversource how much more COMPLETE BURIAL will cost in the long run?
