New Hampshire is not an energy independent island, and neither is Deerfield.

We are in need of great amounts of "Green" power. Hydro power is about as Green as it gets in the form of environmental impact.

While reports may say we do not "NOW" need this energy, we certainly will as the state continues to grow.

If we in fact were not growing, we still need this power to begin to replace both fossil fuel and nuclear power generation in the state.

Currently we burn Natural Gas, Oil, Biomass, COAL, in various generation facilities around the state.

With that said I support the Northern Pass project in it's current form and proposal.
