The White Mountains and scarred terrain planted with huge electrical towers do not mix -- its just basic common sense. Why anyone would even entertain spoiling the majestic expanse of the White Mountain Region by running huge power lines, above ground no less, through its valleys is beyond explanation -- except greed and maybe just depreciated moral values. All of you who are in favor of this obscene attack on Grafton County's natural resources, please re-examine your priorities and think of a least one generation beyond your own. Bury the lines or bury the whole ridiculous project.
