The Northern Pass project is one in which one man and his company will win, and millions will lose. The plans for this are so vague and ever-changing that it is impossible to trust any of it. Although change is inevitable, the environmental, economic and cultural impact of those towers will devastate this state for good. During every season of the year people come to NH to appreciate the historic and natural appeal of the state - in recent years, by the bus-load from as far away as the UK and Japan. Many of those who live here do so to enjoy similar values, and this setting.

If there were no alternative I might be a little more lenient in my view, but there are many in fact.

Thank you for taking the time to read my remarks, and thank you for your work.
