1. They are esthetically an eyesore.
2. They depreciate not only the abutting and adjacent properties; they also depreciate properties that they appear in the backdrop vistas.
3. The invisible "Rem's that they constantly emit not only effect the natural health and balance of all living organisms within range (mainly people) they also effect all electronic products within range of emitting rem's like (computer's, auto electronics, pacemaker's, satellite dishes and cellphone/GPS units etc.). ..
4. Last, but not least (the danger of any living creatures hanging around under, living or playing to near too being subject to not only the dropping rem's but the abundance of herbicide and other chemicals used to treat and control the brush and foliage growth below them).
