Northern Pass Project:

I have recently traveled to the Eastern Provinces of Canada and have seen first hand these tall power towers and feel that the State of NH should not have it's natural beauty disrupted or that people in cities (such as Concord) should have to see these towers from their yards.

Other States have the transmission lines buried - why can't NH. It seems that the only gain to the people of NH are a few jobs and a higher electric bill. Will this lower or hold our rates steady. Doubtful.

I believe in natural resources for power, but let's bury the power lines if we must have them.
