For one to even consider the Northern Pass project to be in the best interest of the present and future residents of new hampshire would " require the willfull suspension of disbelief" ; to quote Hillary Clinton. There are many alternatives to transmission of power through this state to supply the needs of others and all of them should be part of the local 'community in need' planning process .Inadequate planning to result in the need for out of state power is not our problem. We have electric rates that are unbearable already and any discussion of electric power generation and transmission should be to benefit NH residents. It is plainly and readily apparent that "any site location in NH" for the intended project is unsuitable.
