Dear Pamela Monroe,

As a resident of New Hampshire I hope the SEC will reject Northern Pass's certificate. The devastation to our land and communities would be caused by 192 miles of towers and transmission lines and the fact that Northern Pass is designed to benefit Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island not New Hampshire, (already producing more electricity than it needs).

Supporters will conveniently ignore the enormous and negative impact on tourism, our second largest industry, from having a "192-mile extension cord strung through the heart of our state". Even The Eversource study may conveniently omit this concern, but it's never far from the minds of the small businesses along the proposed route.

Investors are hoping that New Hampshire residents are placated by rosy predictions. We are NOT. Facts clearly indicate that while Northern Pass might be good for southern New England, it will be bad for New Hampshire.

We can't sit back and let this happen. If it's built, it will forever change the landscape of the state we love.

I hope you reject this project's certificate to prevent it from irreversible harm to New Hampshire.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
annie vennerbeck
