As a taxpayer and life long citizen of the Concord area, I enjoy the way our area looks and is presently. The whole story about Northern Pass ,seems to me, has a lot of holes in the story of benefit to the local area. My feelings are that we get the eyesore and the risk of having high voltage lines, towers and access roads for the powerlines, not the inexpensive electricity for OUR homes and businesses, just the people south of us, namely Massachuetts, Rhode Island, and Connecticut will reap the benefits of cheap power, and we get stuck with the problems. I have not heard anyone utter the words that we have use of the power going straight thru to the other New England states. So with that said, I DO NOT wish to see this project happen, and don't want the headache of more problems for our state. Looks like the people pushing this project want to slide this thru, while the citizens of this state get stuck with a power project we will not benefit from. Isn't this sad that most people don't understand what they are giving up for the ruse they are being told. Common sense tells you that something that sounds too good to be true, generally is too good to be true.
