In a day and age when we know how to harness solar energy, why are we even considering decimating the beautiful landscape of New Hampshire to send energy south of our state in a form that is not going to serve Concord in the least.

After investing in downtown Concord to make it more attractive and appealing (a great success) why mar the landscape with these ugly tall towers!

The project would be less offensive if placed under ground, but I'd still rather see CT, MA, and RI invest in solar energy rather than expensive.
