I am a native and watched New Hampshire evolve for 74 years. I am aware of the need for more electric power but am opposed to the project. A great deal of money has been expended to "sell" this to the people. Had those dollars gone to developing local resources several things would happen. Jobs would be created that don't end with the construction. Multiple options would have an opportunity to provide electricity, such as wind and solar. The electricity providers could create education programs to encourage conservation. Today we're faced with "giants " in the TV, Internet, and electricity business eliminating any chance of competition. History shows that is not the best answer. Our environment is very important, as well, to the "folks" who live here. We have a beautiful state to live in and we invite the world to come and see. "Live free or die" is not just a slogan. Don't put money and power ahead of good common sense.
