

SEC COMMENTS COLLECTION

| | |
|---------------|--|
| SECDocket | 2015-06 Northern Pass Transmission - Eversource |
| CommenterName | Audrey Goyette |
| Tilton | Laconia |
| DateReceived | 12-20-2017 |

CommenterWords

NH is one of the smallest, narrowest states in the union this ugly scar is not going to go unnoticed. Massachusetts can find power elsewhere, NH has it's own rivers to make hydro power if we want to. If the line was going to be buried that would be one thing, or if it was going to travel on an existing power line course, but it's not. It's not fair to wreck NH's beauty for some temporary monetary gain. I don't have much faith in the powers that be doing the right thing. Seabrook Power Plant had the largest protest ever at that time and it was still built.