Dear Pamela Monroe,

The people in the path of this project vehemently oppose it and that is what should count the most. NH doesn't benefit from allowing this to go through. If the whole thing were buried under ground, I wouldn't have a problem with it, nor would anyone else, I imagine. Those trees are our bread and butter. That's why people come here, not to see miles long stretches of power line towers. Those living near those towers will see their property values go down, so this project only hurts NH, it doesn't help.

Sincerely,
Darla Bruno
